四、閱讀測驗：讀完下面的一段文字之後，根據文意，選出一個最適當的答案（每題兩分，共 20 分）

In the last few decades, members of the foreign language profession have tended to divide culture into two bins: "Big C" (formal) and "little c" (daily life) cultures. Most teachers were comfortable with the concept of "Big C" (formal) culture, which required some knowledge of the formal institutions (social, political, and economic), the great figures of history, and those products of literature, fine arts, and the sciences that were traditionally assigned to the category of elite culture. The "little c" (daily life) culture bin included those aspects of daily living studied by the sociologist and the anthropologist: housing, clothing, food, tools, transportation, and all the patterns of behavior that members of the culture regard as necessary and appropriate.
