1. High blood pressure indicates the heart is working too hard to pump the blood throughout the body. Eventually, in an attempt to keep the blood flowing, the heart muscle enlarges. Unless blood pressure is lowered, the heart may dilate and stop beating altogether. Ironically, hypertension also causes blood vessels to thicken, further increasing resistance and elevating blood pressure. This process, known as reactive arteriosclerosis, jeopardizes the entire cardiovascular system. Under these circumstances, everybody is potentially at risk for heart disease, stroke, and kidney failure. When people suffer from hypertension, the effects are subtle and they are usually not aware of it. That is why regular check-ups are necessary. In the event of high blood pressure, doctor and patient must work together to ensure that the patient works to (1) reduce blood pressure quickly and safely, (2) change lifestyles to eliminate stress, (3) maintain correct weight, (4) eat the right foods, and (5) ensure proper vitamin intake, by capsule if necessary. Hypertension, the "silent killer," is the major heart problem facing adults today. Caught in time, it can be treated and its threat can be greatly reduced.

41. What does it mean if a person has high blood pressure?

- (A) He needs to change his diet.
(B) He is getting old.
(C) His heart is working too hard.
